

What is the dlina protocol ? ...

Written by Administrator

Saturday, 28 March 2009 05:40 - Last Updated Saturday, 28 March 2009 06:30

What is the dlina protocol ? ...

The DLNA, stand for Digital Living Network Alliance and is regards a protocol capable to send WiFi waves transmitting data across multimedia devices like TV, PC and others. (See the figure and the arcs connecting the devices).

The name DLNA stand for the group and the devices that includes this logo will be capable to transmit this information and will be music, video and photos.

We can list the following companies that belong to this consortium:

Access, AMD, AWOX, Broadcom, Cisco, Comcast, DigiOn, HP, Huawei, IBM, Intel, Kenwood, Lenovo, LG Electronics, Macrovision, Microsoft, Motorola, Nokia, NXP, Panasonic, Philips, Pioneer, Samsung, Sharp, Sony, Toshiba and Acer.

What is the dlina protocol ? ...

Written by Administrator

Saturday, 28 March 2009 05:40 - Last Updated Saturday, 28 March 2009 06:30

For additional information please visit: <http://www.dlna.org>

topcargo кидалы экстремальный отдых в москве чугунная сковорода wok ryobi ехсіа
3000 карпова
я катушка
requirements to become
отзывы межкомнатных дверей ульяновские луидор
олимптрей
горящие туры в италию
газовый котел двухконтурный настенный
Данильченко Юрий Брониславович
как выбрать машинку для стрижки волос